Canada's Army chooses Sig Sauer pistols

The Canadian government selected the Sig Sauer P320 to supply the Canadian Army with new pistols and holsters. The Sig Sauer P320 is produced by SIG Sauer Inc., which is headquartered in Newington. The contract provides for an initial purchase of 7,000 pistols and holsters, with options for up to 9,500 additional pistols and holsters. The Pentagon had previously selected the P320 for the U.S. military in 2017. The pistols will be utilized by Canadian Armed Forces personnel in all types of operating environments and under a range of conditions.

Canadian materials powering sustainable homebuilding in New England

Walpole and Keene-based Bensonwood is at the forefront of designing and engineering the next generation of healthy, energy-efficient homes, using high-quality materials sourced from trusted Canadian partners they have collaborated with for decades. Approximately one-third of the lumber and other materials used in Bensonwood's precision off-site manufacturing come from Canada, including advanced engineered timber products that are essential to their process. These Canadian materials support Bensonwood's commitment to innovation in design, engineering, and sustainable construction. The quality, consistency, and cost-effectiveness of those Canadian products have enabled high-value manufacturing to thrive in New Hampshire, fostering a dynamic Can-Am supply chain that has fueled Bensonwood's growth and workforce expansion.

Canadian expertise in Concord

Superior Plus of Toronto acquired Concord-based Rymes Propane and Oil in the fall of 2020. The acquisition has expanded the company's U.S. propane distribution and will provide a high-quality and stable cash flow for the local establishment.
