

ECONOMIC SECURITY ALLIES

PARTNERS IN PROSPERITY

Canada is critical to U.S. economic security. Our economic relationship is a competitive advantage in the context of global strategic rivalry and competition. We jointly prioritize the protection of our workers and economic interests from malign interests, and ensure our global competitiveness and future sustainability.

TOGETHER, WE'RE ONE OF THE MOST PROSPEROUS, INNOVATIVE AND SECURE REGIONS IN THE WORLD

Canada is a major source of critical minerals, critical inputs, food, and energy, which bolsters our shared industrial base and resilience, and reduces our reliance on malign states.

Almost $1 Trillion per year, or $2.5 billion each day, in bilateral trade.

FOREIGN DIRECT INVESTMENT
IN 2023, CANADA'S FDI STOCK IN THE UNITED STATES TOTALLED $528 BILLION.

Canada is abundant with natural resources, making us a trusted and stable supplier.

Canada is the largest export market for 35 states, and top three for 46 states.

Canada buys more U.S. goods than China, France and Japan combined.

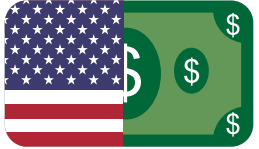

Roughly 80% of Canadian goods exported to the U.S. are incorporated into U.S. supply chains.

Canadian companies employ almost 900,000 workers in the U.S. and nearly 8 million U.S. jobs are tied to trade with Canada.

Canada purchases half of its worldwide imports from the U.S. Meanwhile, the U.S. represents nearly half of all foreign direct investment in Canada.

USMCA
Our free trade agreement is the cornerstone for our economic partnership while enhancing our regional competitiveness and leveling the playing field for our workers.

Secure and Resilient Supply Chains
Jointly, we build secure and resilient supply chains to reduce our collective vulnerabilities and lessen dependence on hostile states.

Securing Industries of the Future
Emerging technologies (e.g. artificial intelligence and quantum) are key to our shared prosperity and Canada works closely with the U.S. to ensure secure and safe implementation.

Our Workers Are Our Strength
Canada and the U.S. are offering more sustainable, fair and competitive economies for workers at home, including, uniquely, through our binational unions. On the global stage, we are advancing labour standards together.

Safeguarding food security, supply & affordability
Canada-U.S. agriculture and agri-food trade has a highly integrated supply chain that delivers safe, high-quality and affordable food to millions.
